

Is your AVG program ready?

The AVG doesn't just ask whether you've read the regulation, it asks whether you can prove compliance, on demand. Nine quick questions to check where you stand today...

☐ 1. Data inventory

Can you list what personal data you process, where, and why, without digging through 5 spreadsheets?

☐ 2. Legal basis

Does every processing activity have a documented, defensible legal basis on file?

☐ 3. Transparency

Are your privacy notices current and aligned with what you actually do with the data?

☐ 4. Data subject rights

Could you respond to an access or erasure request, on deadline, without a scramble?

☐ 5. Security measures

Are technical and organizational safeguards (access control, encryption, MFA) in place and reviewed?

☐ 6. Vendor management

Do you have signed DPAs and active due diligence for every third party touching your data?

☐ 7. DPIAs

Is there a standard process for assessing high-risk processing before it goes live?

☐ 8. Breach response

Is your incident process documented, tested, and known by the people who'd need to run it?

☐ 9. Reporting & accountability

Can leadership see compliance status and risk at a glance – not just on audit day?

Want the reasoning behind each item, including what regulators actually look for and where most teams get stuck?
